Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, I'm going to turn him every way but loose when we get to the general election.
Wells, who worked in the gubernatorial campaign of Jim Johnson two years ago, said, "I could perhaps keep Rockefeller in Arkansas if he were by some quirk of fate re-elected. Each time he left the state, I would be governor and I don't think he would like that."

Wells, 37, an independent insurer who helps his mother run a hardware store and his wife operate a restaurant in Hermitage, said his youthfulness and experience would aid his candidacy over Coffelt and incumbent Republican Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt in November.
"I'm more familiar with the present operation of the state from a fiscal standpoint," Wells said. "I personally know each member of the Senate and have a knowledge of challenges and problems facing the state."

Coffelt has a different view, however.
"It's generally accepted that I'm the better qualified candidate in this race," he said. "I think it is also generally accepted that for many reasons I can lend the greatest strength to the Democratic ticket in November."
Coffelt, 60, served two terms in the Arkansas House in the 1930s but lost his Democratic bid for governor in 1962 and his bid for chancery judge in 1966. He is married and he and his wife, Betty, have three grown daughters.
Wells has served in the House since 1961. He is married and he and his wife, Sue, have four school-aged sons.

panhandle. The latter pilots reported destroying or damaging 42 trucks and 17 supply boats.
The B52 strikes along the frontier ranged from inside the northern half of the demilitarized zone about eight miles west-northwest of the Marine base at Con Thien to five miles inside North Vietnam.
Military spokesmen said the bombers attacked North Vietnamese troops believed preparing to infiltrate into South Vietnam's northernmost provinces. They also rained explosives on truck parks and on antiaircraft and artillery emplacements posing a threat to American fighter-bombers and combat bases just below the demilitarized zone.
One mission struck at suspected enemy troop positions 12 miles west of Da Nang, near the spot where U.S. Marines fought a fierce close-range battle with about 100 North Vietnamese soldiers from dusk Saturday to Sunday morning.

The North Vietnamese broke off contact and withdrew after American artillery and dive bombers pounded their fortified positions. Twenty-two North Vietnamese and eight Leathernecks were killed and 42 Americans were wounded, U.S. headquarters said.
"Da Nang," headquarters of the Marines in South Vietnam and the country's second largest city, is considered a likely target for the major enemy offensive which expects the U.S. Command within the next month or so. But neutral diplomats in Saigon don't believe an enemy offensive is imminent. They say the reduction in ground fighting since mid-June is a deliberate enemy de-escalation intended to win a halt in American bombing of North Vietnam.

German Leader to Talks With Czechs

KARLOVY VARY, Czechoslovakia (AP) — East German Communist party chief Walter Ulbricht arrived at this Czechoslovak spa today for talks with Prague's reformist leaders on political and economic relations.
Ulbricht was greeted on his arrival by Czechoslovak party chief Alexander Dubcek, the man he tried to get the Kremlin to unseat and whose liberal reforms he opposed so vigorously.
Ulbricht and his hosts were expected to give much attention to economic issues and relations with Comecon, the Communist common market. On the political side, Ulbricht was expected to ask the Prague men for assurances that their dealings with West Germany would not harm the position of the Communist regime in East Germany.

ing of the "establishment." Crank said the eminent domain bill would benefit other industry and was for the good of Arkansas.
Both Crank and Mrs. Johnson are against gun registration. Crank once served as speaker of the House. He also served as chairman of the Legislative Council.
Mrs. Johnson, 40, is the mother of three sons. She says what is needed in state government is the simple economics of homemaking. Her husband has said she knows more about government than any other Democratic candidates in the race.
Crank wound up his campaign Saturday night at a rally at Jonesboro where he criticized Rockefeller for being out of his office often.

Johnson Gets Ready for More Tests

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson visited an Army hospital here today for intestinal X-rays that will be flown to Bethesda, Md., for study by Navy doctors and a Mayo Clinic internist.
Johnson spent about 75 minutes at Brooke Army Medical Center where he was X-rayed for a chronic intestinal disorder called diverticulosis.
By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson is nearing the end of a 48-hour, liquid-only fast in preparation for further tests to learn the extent of a chronic intestinal disorder.

The Texas White House declined to say exactly when Johnson would return for X-rays and other tests to Brooke Army Medical Center at San Antonio, a 35-minute helicopter trip from the President's ranch.
But Johnson, who began the fast Saturday by watching visitors eat steak, was considered unlikely to prolong it.
Johnson disclosed Thursday, after two trips to Brooke for a checkup, that he is afflicted with diverticulosis, a condition that produces small pouches on the inner lining of the large intestine.

To prepare for the new examination, Johnson has had to observe a liquid diet for 48 hours. He began it Saturday—before serving steaks to two ranch visitors, Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland—the Republican ticket in the 1968 presidential campaign.
Johnson and other top officials briefed Nixon and Agnew on foreign policy matters.
Johnson attended Roman Catholic services Sunday at St. Francis Xavier Church in Stonewall, a couple of miles from the LBJ Ranch. Although not a Catholic, Johnson frequently goes to mass there and is a friend of the pastor, the Rev. Wunibald W. Schneider.

In his prayer, the priest said, "Let us ask the divine physician to give good health and strength to our President and First Lady."
Johnson's personal physician, Vice Adm. George G. Burkley, announced Thursday that apart from the diverticulosis that has afflicted the President since 1960—all tests produced findings well within normal limits. He said the same of Mrs. Johnson, who also went to Brooke last week for a checkup.

"which I do very carefully and with prudence and caution, I would say that the negotiations, while they have been sticky and they have been slow and they appear many times not to be productive, that those negotiations are at a serious stage."
Humphrey was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."
Sen. George S. McGovern, the newest declared Democratic contender, said a certain "disquietude" he detects among delegates gives him "at least a fighting chance" to beat Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.
McGovern was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

But an Associated Press survey after McGovern entered the race Saturday showed he drew immediate support from only two delegates, both from Nebraska. The South Dakota senator already had his state's 26 delegate votes.
McCarthy, bidding for support from California's 174 delegates, said in Sacramento Sunday the Democratic party is "an empty shell—without power or vitality or function" and must be revitalized.

Alexander, Files for Congress

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The race for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 1st District has developed into a geographical battle.
It's the East vs. the West as Bill Alexander of Osceola (the East) and Jack D. Files of Brinkley (the West) waged a hearty campaign for the right to hopefully take over the congressional seat being vacated by Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark.
Gathings' announcement late last year that he would retire after serving 30 years from the 1st District touched off an eight-man race for the Democratic nomination. The winner will oppose Republican Guy Newcomb of Osceola in the Nov. 5 general election.

Alexander and Files, both young lawyers, made it to the runoff, but in strikingly different fashions.
Alexander, 34, ran up 33,480 votes in the preferential primary, 20,000 more than Files, who barely made the runoff with a 114-vote margin over Dr. Ralph Patton of Paragould.
An estimated 70,000 persons are expected to vote in the race, and the big question is whether Files has picked up enough support from the defeated candidates to overcome the 20,000-vote lead Alexander held over him in the first primary.

Files, 35, has picked up endorsements from three of the next four vote-getters in the race, including Patton. Lee Ward of Jonesboro, who ran sixth with 7,290 votes, and Henry D. Atkins, a Negro principal of Wynne, have endorsed Files.
Ward has charged that if Alexander got the nomination, the large plantation owners of Mississippi County would be "calling the shots" because Newcomb also is from Osceola.

In the latest outbreaks, spreading over 20 blocks, one hospital reported about 30 civilians were treated for gunshot and knife wounds and other injuries. Firemen said they had to dodge sniper bullets as they fought several blazes.

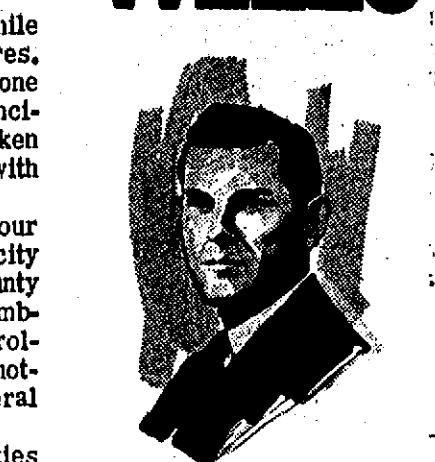

Chicago Heights and East Chicago were under 9 p.m. curfews after the series of fires. One blaze destroyed a warehouse, causing an estimated $400,000 damage. Police said five of the fires were the work of arsonists but the cause of the warehouse fire was not determined.

A policeman was shot while investigating one of the fires. Two youths were beaten, one critically, in a separate incident. Two Negroes were taken into custody in connection with some of the fires.
In Little Rock, a seven-hour curfew was placed on the city and surrounding Pulaski County Sunday night as some firebombings were reported and a patrolman's arm was grazed by shotgun pellets. There were several arrests.
At Miami, Fla., authorities Sunday cut the dark-to-dawn curfew by four hours as the city remained free of major violence for the third straight day. The full curfew had been imposed after street fighting, which led to three deaths, broke out Tuesday. The new curfew was reduced to midnight to 6 a.m.

A College Education
The Greatest Gift You Can Give Your Child

A well known privately endowed university recently raised its already high tuition to $2,500 per year. In 1954 tuition at the same school was $600 per year. This is only an indication of what is happening to college costs all over the country, and why it is so important to start saving for your child's education as early in life as possible.

Multiplying today's average cost of a college education, about $2500 per year, by four, it is apparent your child will need at least $10,000 for a college education.

There are many reasons for sending a child to college, the major one a possible lifetime income advantage of $250,000. For each of the four years of college, this is a return of $62,500. This income advantage opens avenues to a better standard of living and greater occupational challenge.

Twenty-five years ago, a high school diploma meant what a Bachelor's degree does today. Now the Bachelor's is overshadowed by a Master's. In the next twenty years Ph.D.'s will probably be commonplace.

Make sure your child receives the greatest gift you can give . . . the advantages of a college education. Start saving for it regularly . . . and start saving now! A little at a time can build up fast when you save in a safe profitable account here.

Head Injury Caused Death of Chavez

WASHINGTON (AP) - Preliminary autopsy results indicate Dennis Chavez Jr., son of the late senator from New Mexico, died of head injuries suffered several days earlier, authorities say.

Dr. Richard Welton, District of Columbia coroner, said final certification of cause of death will follow further investigation. Chavez, 55, a Washington lawyer who had worked as an aide and campaign manager for his father before the senior Chavez' death in 1962, died Sunday shortly after he was found unconscious on the floor of a jail cell.

Police said Chavez was arrested after he was seen staggering on a Washington street. He was charged with drunkenness.

Dr. Welton said the autopsy showed Chavez suffered brain contusions and bleeding from membranes surrounding the brain and that the injuries apparently were suffered in a fall several days before his death. Dr. Welton said the injuries could have produced the staggering.

Chavez was the son of the late Sen. Dennis Chavez who served in the Senate from 1935 until his death.

Like his father, the younger Chavez was born on the family ranch in Los Chavez, N.M., which had belonged to the family since 1769 when the King of Spain gave it to them as a land grant.

Chavez, a bachelor, won the silver and bronze stars for heroism during World War II service as a U.S. Marine.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

CAN'T WIN 'EM ALL

Dear Helen: After reading "What is a Grandmother?" I wondered whether I should send a copy to one of our daughter-in-law, or write my own article. Mine is called "What is a Grandmother to DO?"

WHEN two of our many grandchildren are trained by their "glamorous" mother to call us "Mr. and Mrs.?"

WHEN we are invited only for a cup of tea and a thin slice of cake once a year for a joint birthday party - the parents' and children's birthdays are within a few weeks of each other?

WHEN the children deliberately refuse to say "Hello," "Thank you" or "Good night" to us on these occasions, though our gifts are in good taste and quite costly?

WHEN we are constantly told of all the expensive gifts the other grandparents gave?

WHEN we never receive a phone call, visit or even a nice birthday or Christmas card - or Mothers of Father's Day remembrance?

WHEN our other children and grandchildren (who love us and show it) are snubbed by these four?

WHEN we invite them time and again for a holiday get-together of family gathering and are told pointedly by our daughter-in-law, "No, we are going to MY mother's house?"

WHEN my husband points out that we aren't exactly failures when all but one of our sons and daughters-in-law sincerely care for us and they and their children enjoy their frequent visits to "Grandma and Grandpa's"?

WHEN he adds, "Forget the slights and hurts from one family. You're luckier than most!"

- ANONYMOUS GRANDMA

Dear Grandma: What is a Grandmother to do? Listen to her husband! But remember this: A sky without a single cloud can get mighty dull. Your upply in-law keeps the adrenal glands functioning, so don't forget her entirely.

... And you might also thank her (inwardly) for providing the contrast which makes you realize how lucky you are. -H

Dear Helen: About that wife who is a "slammer." Her husband shouldn't try to stop her from slapping things when she gets mad. If she holds back the slams, she might have a nervous breakdown. (Note from H: If she doesn't, HE might!)

Here is a solution: Her husband should get a short piece of tree trunk, about two feet long and place it in the corner of the room. It would look like an antique. A medium sized wooden hammer should be hung on the side of it. Then he could tell his wife that if she has to slam, slam the hammer on the tree trunk - EXPERIENCED

Dear Ex: I hate to put a damper on your amateur psychology, but your solution would probably drive everyone in the house right out of his or her tree. -H

Dear Helen: I fell in love with a woman who neglected to tell me she was married. Her husband took care of that little detail, and I still carry the scars. Then I fell for another woman who told me she would get a divorce if she could afford it. I gave her money for a quick trip to Mexico. Maybe I should have gone along to protect my investment because she came back married to another guy.

So I decided if that was the way they play, I could too. Now I find myself "engaged" to three girls who think I'm going to go through with it. And I like the fourth better than any of them.

This fourth one - I met her last week - makes me see that all females don't cheat. She is married to a no-good bum who won't give her a divorce unless she pays him a thousand dollars.

How do I straighten out my life so I can marry the woman I love? - BEN

Dear Ben: You're better

Television and Radio

by CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Network television's new season holds out little promise as a period of stimulating innovation in broadcast entertainment, but it may go down in the books as a time when two minority groups - television minorities, anyway - receive some unusual if overdue attention.

The new interest in casting Negro performers as regular and temporary members of series' casts has been widely publicized. Negroes will star, co-star and be featured cast members in at least one-quarter of next season's shows, not even counting the 13 variety programs and all the movie reruns. Most dramatic series are planning episodes built around Negro guest stars, whether the programs are Westerns or situation comedies.

Less publicized but certainly new is the emergence of women as stars in a medium which over the years has used girls primarily to brighten up the screens, add mild love interest to stale plots and provide an excuse for publicly pictures of a type believed to be favored by magazine and newspaper picture editors.

In the forthcoming season, two women will have their own variety hours - Carol Burnett and Phyllis Diller, both funny but neither the femme fatale type.

Doris Day and Diahann Carroll, two pulsant show-business and box-office names, will be starring in new situation comedies. They illustrate TV's new maturity kick since both will be playing widows with children. Lucille Ball, who after 16 years straighten out your adolescent thinking before your bank account gets flattened - again! No matter what your age, you're too young to play with girls! - H has got to be television's first lady, will also be around as usual, this time frankly over 35 because her own two teen-agers, Lucie and Desi Arnaz, will co-star as her kids.

For knitters on the go, this three-piece traveler offers smart mix-and-match versatility. Instructions for a wide range of sizes, 10-18, are available.

Over the seasons, older women - that means anything over 25 in TV land - have been demonstrating their staying power while the pretty young things have been as dispensable as facial tissues.

Uncounted numbers of girls with names like Laurie, Lynn and Linda have come - and gone - from our screens. One comedy series, specializing in pretty girls, has had almost total overhauls of casting twice - and most of the show's fans never even realized it.

Yet Barbara Stanwyck, 61 and white-haired, just keeps rolling along that "Big Valley." It was originally intended to have Aunt Bea of "The Andy Griffith Show" return only occasionally to the new "Mayberry R.F.D." but the fan mail piled up so alarmingly that Frances Bavier, a warm, motherly type, will just transfer from Sheriff Andy's house and continue on, housekeeper as usual, for Ken Berry, star of the new sequel to the old favorite.

Irene Ryan, "Beverly Hillsbillies" Grammy, is hardly a contemporary sex symbol, but she just received a raise and a share of the show's residuals under a new contract. Eve Arden and Kaye Ballard playing "Mothers-in-law" with grown children are returning for a second season in a tough time spot that had spelled disaster for a succession of shows before that.

There are assorted reasons for television's continuing girl problem. One theory is that the audience likes its adventurous heroes to be fancy free, so the women can dream and the men can identify. Besides a steady girl friend is a nuisance in stories where the emphasis is on action.

Women, an important even dominating part of the television audience, are more likely to resent gorgeous young things but feel comfortable and unthreatened by comedienne or motherly types.

A beautiful but fading film star once confessed that if she had had it to do all over again, she would have started out as a character actress, "because it doesn't matter how old or wrinkled you get, you can keep working."

$28 Million Mission Just a Failure

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Applications Technology Satellite 4 tumbled around earth in the wrong orbit today as space engineers attempted to salvage what they could from a $28 million mission spoiled by rocket failure.

Officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight center in Greenbelt, Md., said ATS 4 was cartwheeling at the rate of one revolution every 40 seconds and was still attached to the upper stage of its Atlas-Centaur booster rocket.

The drum-shaped satellite, packing a new weather-watching camera built to stalk storms in daylight or darkness, blasted into space Saturday aiming for an orbit that would keep it permanently positioned 22,300 miles over the equator west of South America.

En route, however, the Centaur upper stage of ATS 4's booster rocket failed to re-start a second time as planned and, instead of drilling the satellite toward its lofty 22,300-mile high goal, left it stranded in a low orbit where cameras and communications experiments aboard the craft are useless.

NASA refused to speculate on why the failure occurred. Sources close to the investigation said engineers suspect something went wrong in the propellant system which feeds fuel into the Centaur engines. A pump used to build up pressure in the fuel tanks may have frozen, possibly because of a heater failure, they said. Without proper pressure in the fuel tanks, the engines would not start.

ATS 4 also did not separate from its 7,000-pound Centaur rocket as planned. With such a heavy weight on its tail, controlling the satellite will be difficult, if not impossible, officials said.

Project officials said the most that can probably be gained is engineering information that will tell whether satellite experiments survived the launch.

Officials said ATS 4 cost about $15 million. Its Atlas-Centaur rocket was valued at another $13 million.

Curfew at Miami Is Reduced

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Authorities reduced by four hours Sunday the dark-to-dawn curfew that had been imposed on half of Miami to halt street fighting.

The ban on all but emergency traffic was imposed after street fighting, which led to three deaths, broke out Wednesday.

Sheriff E. Wilson Purdy said the curfew hours were reduced to midnight to 6 a.m. and that other steps would depend on the outcome of meetings among residents of the trouble areas.

Purdy, over-all commander of National Guard and police forces that were rushed in after an outbreak of racial violence in three Negro sections, described the curfew modification as part of his "efforts to de-escalate the areas."

Police reported all was quiet again Sunday, the third day without major violence.

Residents of Liberty City, the large business and residential area in northwest Miami where the violence started, met in two community conclaves Sunday and elected adult and youth advisory councils to seek a solution to racial problems.

Representatives of the Negro youths have called for withdrawal of the National Guard troops, immediate release without bond of all persons arrested as a result of the violence and that public inquiries be held in the three deaths. They also suggested a "black hat patrol" of Negroes to replace the National Guardsmen.

Authorities have made no official response to the demands, but Purdy—in response to a newsman's question—rejected the idea of a youth patrol as a replacement for the Guard.

"I will not yield police powers to volunteer citizens' groups," he said. "I don't care whether they wear black hats, white hats, green hats or purple hats."

Springdale Back to Mississippi

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Running back Steve Brown of Springdale has signed a grant-in-aid scholarship to play football at Mississippi State University.

Mississippi State Coach Charlie Shira signed Brown in Little Rock Saturday shortly before Brown played in the Arkansas High School All-Star football game.

Brown, the leading scorer in Class AAA last year with 22 touchdowns, gained more than 1,000 yards rushing during the season. He is 6-foot-1 and weighs 195.

Fine Playing Paid Him Well

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., played some of the best tennis in his long career Sunday to defeat Gene Scott of St. James, N.Y., 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 11-11 to win the 79th Meadow Club Invitational Grass Court Tournament.

CHINESE PROVERBS

KOHIMA, India (AP) — Who said Chairman Mao is averse to love and marriage? Two of the Communist Chinese proverbs captured from the rebel Nagas who had just returned after training in China read thus: "Marriage has many pains but celibacy has NO pleasures." "It is better for a woman to marry a man who loves her than a man whom she loves."

Robinson Is Switching Over Again

By RAY KOHN

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Robinson, quitting as an aide to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, says he'll back any Democrat against Richard M. Nixon. His turnabout highlights the expressed unhappiness of some Negro Republicans with the GOP ticket.

Robinson, 49, who broke the color line in major league baseball, said Sunday that Nixon heads a ticket that is "racist in nature" and that the former vice president "has prostituted himself and sold himself out to the bigots in the South."

By selecting Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew as his running mate, Robinson said, Nixon has handed over control of the party to the Southerners.

The former Brooklyn Dodgers great, who was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1962, declared, "I intend . . . to support the Democratic nominee, and pray to God that every black man and every minority in this country does the same thing."

"I'm a black man first, an American second and then I will support a political party—"

He appeared on the NBC-TV

program, "Searchlight."

Dissatisfaction with his own party was expressed by one Negro delegate to the GOP convention in Miami Beach, Fla., who commented at a private meeting, "The black voter has generally been disenfranchised with the Republican party for so long that, in order for the GOP to recapture any significant numbers of blacks, they will have to offer far more than they have to date."

Negro Republican resentment against the GOP ticket sometimes centered about the selection of Agnew.

William O. Walker, an alternate delegate from Cleveland, said of Agnew: "The thing that disturbs me is how his selection was brought about. This was done by Nixon selling out to South Carolina Sen. Strom Thurmond."

Wendell G. Freeland, an alternate from Pittsburgh, termed the choice of Agnew "a horrible mistake."

Barrington Parker, a delegate from Washington, D.C. said the Nixon-Agnew ticket "Isn't going to have any appeal in the District."

Archie Jones, a Negro delegate from Baltimore, said the nomination of Agnew "will not help the ticket."

Mrs. Carolyn Hill Stewart of West Virginia said that GOP political personalities were not attracting enough young Negroes to the party.

Citing young Negro workers for the presidential candidacies of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, both Democrats, she asked: "But who have we got that they're going to do that for—except maybe New York Mayor John Lindsay?"

But other Negroes expressed support for the party and the Nixon-Agnew slate.

Chester K. Gillespie, GOP delegate from Ohio, has urged Negroes to stay within the Republican party "and fight for what is right." He said "It is stupid for all Negroes to be Democrats."

Alvin W. Dyson, an alternate from Richmond, Va., said: "We can live with the ticket and work with it."

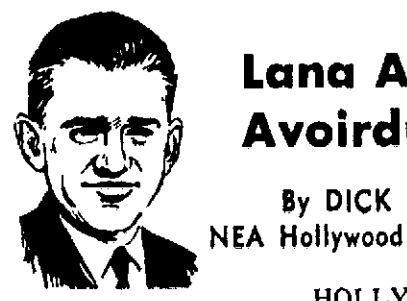

Agnew, Dyson said, has kept "lines of communication open to Negro leaders in Maryland."

In 1964, Robinson stumped for Rockefeller's bid for the GOP presidential nomination. He refused to endorse the candidacy of Barry Goldwater and campaigned for President Johnson.

Robinson, who campaigned for Nixon in 1960, said he did so because Nixon's stand on civil rights then was "forthright."

His disappointment over the failure of his party to name Rockefeller as the presidential standard-bearer was a decisive factor in his move, Robinson said.

Lana Adds Avoirdupois

By DICK KLEINER

NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Some leading actors hereabouts auditioned for a play—but backed out when they learned the producer wanted to do the play in the nude . . . John Cassavetes and his wife, Gena Rowlands, will work together for the first time in a feature called "McClain" . . . Theodore Bikel, during his six months in Las Vegas with "Fiddler On the Roof," discovered the joys of the steam room . . . He lost 25 pounds and gained a hobby—his building his own steam room in his New York home . . . Barbara Anderson, the Emmy winner of Ironside, is a little unhappy about the size of her part this year . . . She expected the award would lead to better scripts for her, but no . . . Instead of my part being beefed up, it has been beefed down," she says.

Psst, Stanley. Your wife's putting on a little weight.

This public aside is directed to Dr. Stanley Vogel. His wife is the other Wood girl, Lana. Natalie's kid sister. And, according to Lana, Stanley likes her thin but she's hiding something from him—a few stray pounds.

We were talking about her being typed as "the little sexpot," as she calls it. She's been little-sexpotting in Peyton Place and in "For Singles Only" and in "Free Grass." She doesn't like it.

"Really," she says, looking very little-sexpotish. "That's not me. I don't consider myself very sexy. I've always been a little underweight, although I'm gaining some now. Don't tell Stanley because he likes me thin."

Lana is eight years younger than Natalie, but she says the two sisters were always close. They shared a room until Natalie got married. By the time Lana was born, Natalie had been acting for four years, so she grew up with a star for a big sister.

"People didn't take me seriously at first," she says. "They felt I was only in it for kicks, that I really didn't mean it when I said I wanted to act. But I do."

Gradually, she established herself as a personality in her own right. Now if she could only get people to realize she isn't just a little sexpot, and if she could only get Stanley to like her not so skinny, life would be perfect.

It isn't easy to remain dignified when you're playing with giants. But Gary Conway thinks he's done it in the coming ABC series, Land of the Giants. That's the one which has a bunch of plain folks marooned in a land full of huge creatures.

"I think it will be successful," Gary says. "And I've given it a lot of thought. The secret is for the characters to be real and believable, even though the background is unbelievable. The actor must retain his dignity, and that's where many of them miss."

"Like two movies I saw recently—'The Party' with Peter Sellers and 'The Secret War of P.T. Frigg' with Paul Newman. Sellers played a caricature, but he was always believable. Newman played a real character, but went overboard, so he wasn't real. I think Newman is the worst comedic actor there is—and yet he can be so good in dramatic parts."

"Then there was Charlton Heston in 'Planet Of The Apes'—he was just a mess, you couldn't believe he was flesh-and-blood."

They've shot 17 episodes of the series already, and Conway is certain that the cast will be recalled in September to do at least nine more and finish out the year.

"It's an expensive show," he says, "and it wouldn't be a good investment unless they put together a package for syndication."

TWO NEW CONCEPTS in electronic control of automobiles are illustrated here. Above is Automatic Headway Control. The trailing car is equipped with a transmitter which projects an invisible beam at the auto ahead. Tailights of the front vehicle reflect the beam back to a receiver. A computer "reads" the signal and adjusts brakes and accelerator automatically so that a preset safe following distance will be maintained. Below is Minigap, in which cars are linked together by invisible electronic beams into highway caravans that follow specially built leader vehicles. Computers inside the autos would take over control from motorists, who would thus be freed from the driving task as long as they were "hooked up." Ford research engineers are planning to develop the concepts for further study.

THE WELL CHILD

Pre-teen Needs Room To Expand Interests

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Having already discussed the steps involved in letting your child stand alone up to his entrance into first grade, let's take a look at your child of 8 to 11.

The pre-teen no longer needs to have his mother hover over him directing his every move—and he often takes drastic steps to make this clear. Despite the fact that he sometimes appears not to care about his parents' feelings, it is very important for him to know that you are there and that you still care about him.

Your pre-teen needs room to expand his interests and his activities. If you want to get the most enjoyment from your relationship, now is the time to watch and encourage him without feeling that you must become actively involved. Let him make his own decisions regarding his friends and his hobbies. If he makes a few mistakes, he will learn more from them than he could possibly learn from your well-meant advice.

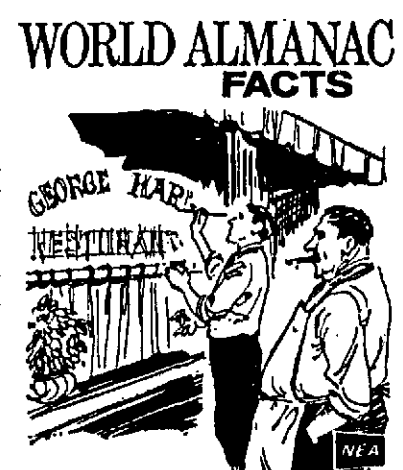

This does not mean that the sky's the limit. You must still know where he is, when he will be home and who he is with. If he knows that you have confidence in his ability to correct his mistakes by himself he will be more likely to accept your guidance on matters that really count. Learn to talk with your child, not at him. He has probably heard all your ideas on proper conduct many times. Endless repetition will not help at this stage.

If he refuses to tidy up his room, you should make it a firm rule that he can't mess up the rest of the house and that he is not to create any fire hazards in his private pigsty. Finally, don't make mountains out of molehills. Don't back down where a moral issue is involved. Don't refuse to help him if he asks you to and never let him think for a moment that you don't love him.

Many Americans of foreign birth or descent have legally changed their names, usually to English-sounding ones, often citing business reasons. The Word Almanac notes that one for whom this practice backfired was George Kerstipolis, who changed his name to Harris but returned to court to request his old name back: his Greek customers found Harris hard to pronounce.

Business Behind Closed Doors

A survey made by an independent firm shows congressional committees excluded the public from their meetings 39 per cent of the time in 1967, only slightly better than the record high of 42 per cent in 1966. Leading the closed-door parade was the House Appropriations Committee which held all its 383 meetings in secret. The Senate Appropriations Committee closed only 25 per cent of its 236 meetings.

Other committees with frequent closed meetings were Senate Foreign Relations, 56 per cent; House Armed Services, 50 per cent; House Agriculture, 47 per cent. In fairness it should be pointed out that in the case of the foreign relations and armed services committees, it is possible their sessions had a bearing on national security and should have been closed.

But all too much of the country's business is being done in private, all the way from school boards to Congress. Even Florida's "government in the sunshine" law hasn't corrected the situation in this state. Obviously a better law must be found, for the people have a right to know. — Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel

The Political Menagerie

Sam Ragan of the Raleigh News and Observer notes that a lot of people find politics animalistic, and William Safire's "The New Language of Politics" (Random House) seems to bear out this feeling with all of its references to animals.

The political language this year will abound, for instance, with such words and phrases as doves, hawks, lame ducks, eat crow, dark horse, wheel horse, war horse, watchdogs, bird dogs, fat cats, red herrings, tigers, and, of course, elephant and donkey. — Morganton (N.C.) News-Herald

Poll Shows GOP Pledge Favorable

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Republican party's pledge for the "de-Americanization" of the Vietnam war is favored by two of every three voters, the Gallup Poll said Sunday.

A survey made just prior to the GOP National Convention last week found that 66 per cent of the American electorate would back a candidate on such a stand.

The de-Americanization proposal was contained in the Republican plank on the Vietnam war.

Gallup said that closely comparable views are held by supporters of Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee, and Democratic contenders Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The pollster said the GOP plank is reminiscent of the 1952 strategy of the Republicans, when presidential candidate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called for greater participation by South Koreans in the Korean conflict.

A Gallup Poll at that time showed the public more than 2-to-1 in favor of Eisenhower's plan.

Boatbuilders Lack Patience

CARSON, Calif. (AP) — Frank Zsabo, who should know, says that most amateur boatbuilders lack the supreme quality they need: Patience.

Zsabo, 58, runs a shipyard near Los Angeles harbor where boatbuilders pay $250 a year to store their craft while they work on them. Only a fifth of his customers ever put a boat to water, he says. Some boats go unfinished for 10 years.

Does Zsabo build boats? "Oh, I've done repairs on a few but I just haven't got the patience," he said.

Battle Rages on Saigon Outskirts

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops guarding the southern approaches to Saigon battled the Viet Cong today at two points nine miles apart.

Helicopters landed more than 1,000 men from the 9th Division in rice fields 24 miles south of Saigon in an attempt to encircle an enemy force estimated at more than 100 troops.

Details were sketchy, and no casualty figures were reported as yet. But the fighting was said to be heavy at times.

That fight was just south of Rach Kien, a key district capital. The Americans were sent in after intelligence reports told of the enemy unit, and the GIs drew fire shortly after they landed.

Nine miles farther north and only 15 miles below Saigon, another 300 men from the 9th Division virtually wiped out an enemy platoon of 40 or so men, according to initial field reports. Only three Americans were reported wounded.

In a delayed report, U.S. headquarters said that a Viet Cong force fired with bazooka-type rockets Saturday at the U.S. freighter Southport II as it approached Saigon.

U.S. Navy gunboats, helicopter gunships and Air Force fighter-bombers attacked the enemy positions along the bank and then strafed fleeing groups of Viet Cong. A U.S. spokesman said 20 Viet Cong were killed, there were no U.S. casualties and the ship was not damaged.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force B52s bombed North Vietnam for the first time in nearly a month, while U.S. tactical fighter-bombers flew 110 missions Sunday against enemy supply lines in North Vietnam's southern

Discovers Snoring Is a Very Real Threat to Happy Marriages

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Fantasy starts early in human life. Researchers believe that many babies begin to have dreams within five hours after birth.

Does your mate snore? Snoring is so prevalent in Britain that a specialist estimates it threatens the marriages of 1.5 million couples in that country. He believes that about 50 per cent of snorers can be cured of their affliction and another 30 per cent helped by proper treatment.

Uncle Sam picks up the tab for the world's most expensively tailored clothes. They are the individually fitted 21-layer suits which U.S. astronauts will wear on projected flights to the moon. The suits cost about $100,000 apiece, weigh 57 pounds, and are designed to protect space men from lunar temperatures which range from 250 degrees below zero to 250 degrees above.

Although women generally brush their teeth more often than men, they are more likely than men to lose all their chopers. On the average, U.S. women have two more fillings or missing teeth than men. At any age they are also more likely to need eyeglasses. About 50 per cent of the female population wear them, only 43 per cent of the male population.

3 Killed in Watts Race Riot; Little Rock Area Is Quiet

By BOB KERR
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police exchanged gunfire with Negroes in the Watts area Sunday night and three civilians were killed. Two of the dead were listed as Negroes.

Three police officers were among 31 reported injured. The disturbance, which appeared to be quieting today, followed a festival commemorating the third anniversary of the Watts riots in which 34 died. Festival sponsors have held the celebration annually since 1966, saying it is proof that something constructive could come from the devastating 1965 riots.

Police called a tactical alert shortly after midnight Sunday placing 2,000 officers on duty throughout the nation's third largest city.

Some 200 officers were rushed into an area around Will Rogers Park, a few blocks from the area that was scorched by the 1965 rioting that caused $40 million in property damage.

Police Lt. Law Ritter said the trouble started about 10:30 p.m. when two officers, directing traffic at the Watts Summer Festival, arrested a woman on suspicion of drunkenness.

Bystanders hurled rocks and bottles at the officers, who called for reinforcements. Sixty policemen were sent to the scene and an exchange of gunfire began.

Police Chief Thomas Reddin said the firing at police was heavier than in the early stages of the 1965 rioting.

"Then we had scattered reports of snipers," he said. "This time there was concentrated firing."

Sgt. David McGill, one of the officers who moved in after the first shooting, said, "We saw a lot of people being hit. They shot into their own crowd."

A police substation in the area was fired at.

Ritter said "the attack on the police station was apparently planned, and the firing in the park was definitely planned. It all began as if there had been a signal sounded."

About 20 blocks of the 98 per cent Negro area were touched by some part of the disturbance during the night. Police cordoned off several blocks.

Chief Reddin at first said he did not think the outbreak was organized, then later said: "I don't know yet. Maybe we'll

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Minor racial disturbances broke out here Sunday night and early today, despite a seven-hour curfew that was clamped on the city and surrounding Pulaski County.

A patrolman was slightly injured when shotgun pellets grazed his arm Sunday night. He was the fourth person wounded by gunfire since the disturbances broke out.

Police also reported 10 to 12 minor fire bombings in predominantly Negro areas and the arrest of "quite a few" persons.

The shooting of the patrolman reportedly occurred about 30 minutes before a curfew, authorized by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, went into effect at 10 p.m.

Rockefeller said the curfew was requested by the mayors of Little Rock, North Little Rock, Jacksonville and Pulaski County authorities. He had ordered a curfew from midnight Saturday until 6 a.m. Sunday. Twenty-eight persons were arrested early Sunday for violating the curfew. A police spokesman said half the curfew violators were white.

Police said the curfew applied to newsmen. A spokesman said officers wanted the streets completely clear.

An aide to the governor said National Guardsmen and Little Rock police cruised city streets together Sunday night.

George A. Pippkins, 22, a Little Rock Negro, was arrested Saturday and charged with assault to kill shortly after a National Guardsman was shot in the right foot while helping police break up a group of Negroes.

North Little Rock police said Emmitt Bishop, 30, of North Little Rock, was treated and released early Sunday morning after being shot in the groin. No arrest has been made in connection with the shooting.

Patrolman Donald R. Brown suffered an injured collarbone Friday night as about 300 Negroes returned to a Negro community center after attending a memorial service for a young Negro inmate beaten to death at the county penal farm Aug. 2.

James Turner, 18, a Little Rock Negro, was shot Friday night by a Little Rock patrolman but he was not seriously injured.

Pulaski County Sheriff Frank Mackey said a shotgun pellet struck one of his deputies in the neck early Saturday morning, but did not break the skin.

Little Rock Mayor Martin Borchert said he was "heart-sick" about the disturbances. "I just could not believe it could happen here," he said.

Selassie Asked to Help Stop the Fighting

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Blafra's chief delegate to the civil war peace talks asked Emperor Haile Selassie today to get the Nigerian government to stop firing on Red Cross mercy flights to starving Biafra.

Prof. End Njoku, Blafra's chief representative at the peace talks here, told the emperor that British-made weapons were used against the planes delivering food and medical supplies to his besieged region.

The International Red Cross announced Saturday it has suspended relief flights to Biafra because one of its planes was fired at and another forced to turn back by heavy ground fire. Neither plane, chartered from a Swiss company, was hit.

Thieves Have a Change of Heart

ROCKY HILL, Conn. (AP) — Thieves who broke into the trucks of a plumbing company and stole some tools had a change of heart.

They returned the tools Saturday along with $10. They also reinstalled a radio they had taken.

The money was enclosed in an envelope with a note that read: "This is our first offense. We feel guilty and are sorry for what happened. The $10 is to cover any damage."

Humphrey Sees First Ballot Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, expressing confidence he'll win the Democratic presidential nomination on the first convention ballot, has pegged his delegate strength at 1,600 votes.

And Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox says he may turn the Democratic race into a four-way battle to show Americans the party "offers more than liberals and socialists."

The Democratic nomination in Chicago in two weeks will require 1,312 votes and Humphrey was asked Sunday if his estimate of delegate strength means he thinks he has the first-ballot nomination sewed up.

"Let me tell you I feel rather relaxed," Humphrey replied. "I feel good. I think we ought to be looking forward to November."

Humphrey also said the Paris peace talks are "at a serious stage" and America's position with Hanoi should not be weakened by loose talk by candidates.

"If I can lend one little note of optimism today," he said, See HUMPHREY On Page 2

Democrats Pick Choice Tuesday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Democrats vote Tuesday on whether to send a veteran state legislator or a housewife and mother of three children up against incumbent Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in November.

Marion Crank of Foreman, a 53-year-old 17-year veteran of the Arkansas House, and Mrs. Virginia Johnson of Conway, who says the governor's office may need a "woman's touch" to "clean up the mess," are the choices.

Crank led the ticket in the July 30 preferential primary, receiving more than 100,000 votes, and Mrs. Johnson gained the runoff by about 400 votes over Ted Boswell.

Both candidates have appealed for support from the defeated candidates, but so far there have been no open endorsements.

Mrs. Johnson, seeking to become the first woman governor in Arkansas history, has opened up during the runoff campaign, criticizing Crank and linking him with the "old guard" and the "establishment."

Crank, sticking much to the same tactics that carried him successfully through the first primary by directing his criticism at Rockefeller, hasn't leveled any criticism at Mrs. Johnson.

He has openly appealed for party unity and the support of the defeated candidates, with his only references to Mrs. Johnson coming in answers to some of her charges, which he termed "ridiculous."

Mrs. Johnson's critics have said she would only be a stand-in governor for her husband, Jim, who was defeated in the 1966 gubernatorial election and in this year's U.S. Senate race.

Mrs. Johnson denied that anyone would be governor but her, saying her husband would serve as a consultant.

She says Crank is the tool of special interests, especially the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. She brought up Crank's sponsorship of a bill extending the power of eminent domain to anhydrous ammonia pipelines, which she said would aid Crank's "boss," a reference to

5 Unloading Fish Topple Over Dead

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Five men unloading a cargo of fish toppled one-by-one Sunday into the hold of their boat where they were found dead.

Lee County sheriff's investigator James Loeffler said, "We don't know what killed them or where it came from. They either got a whiff of a toxic gas or some sort of chemical poison."

Back from a successful trip, the crew of the 125-foot trawler Novelty and dockworkers were preparing to flood the ship's hold to enable huge pumps to pull out both water and fish.

"When the water was turned on," Loeffler said, "the man holding the hose immediately collapsed and fell into the hold."

The first man to react, Francis L. Winter, 53, of Punta Gorda, Fla., jumped through the hatch and reached the body when he, too, keeled over.

As he slumped into the hold, his brother, Joseph, 55, also of Punta Gorda, raced to the hatchway. He got his feet on the ladder and his hand on the rail when the poison hit him and he fell the rest of the way, Loeffler said.

"The other two men never left the deck," the investigator said. "They just looked into the hold and collapsed through the hatch."

He said a sixth man was felled by the incredibly fast-acting poison, but was rescued by the ship's one-armed cook, Clyde Parrish, and dock worker Roy McNeely.

"All of this transpired in less than two minutes," Loeffler said. McNeely descended with a rope while holding his breath and raised the last man to be felled.

"Parrish is the hero if there is one," Loeffler said. Without knowing what had stricken his shipmates and the dock workers, he administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Loeffler said Lawrence Finley, 33, of North Port Charlotte, began to breathe without aid and was rushed to a nearby hospital where he was reported unconscious and in critical condition.

Meanwhile, William Conrad of the Fort Myers fire department rescue team, went into the smelly hold with ropes and brought up the body of Kenneth Smith, 55, manager of the fish processing plant where the ship was docked.

The fireman repeated his rescue attempt when he saw the body of Stephen Richmond, 18-year-old second engineer on the boat.

McGovern Endorsed by Kennedy Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Net gain for Sen. George S. McGovern after two days in the Democratic presidential race appears to be endorsement by several former Kennedy aides, approving nods from some former Kennedy supporters and two delegate votes.

But, the South Dakotan said Sunday, he has at least a "fighting chance" to beat out the other two announced candidates, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McGovern commented on a radio-television program 24 hours after he entered the race. He intends to use the medium as the chief vehicle for his 11th hour drive before the Democratic National Convention opening in Chicago two weeks from today.

His schedule included three tentative television taping or live sessions today and another Tuesday.

McGovern, a 46-year-old former college professor with a record of winning uphill fights, invoked the name of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy numerous times when he formally announced Saturday.

He launched his candidacy in the Caucus Room of the old Senate Office Building where both Robert and John Kennedy launched theirs.

McGovern said he would campaign on a Kennedy-style get-out-of-Vietnam plank.

"I believe deeply in the twin goals for which Robert Kennedy gave his life," he said, "an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the division in our own society."

His avowed hope is to pick up the 300-plus convention delegates pledged to Kennedy when the New York senator was slain last June 6. But the immediate impact was far from encouraging.

Only two members of the Nebraska delegation which Kennedy won in a primary declared their support for McGovern, an Associated Press poll showed.

Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, leader of the 174-member California delegation, said he was "very happy to see Sen. McGovern participate" in the race.

But the delegation won by Kennedy only hours before he was shot reaffirmed its intention to go to the convention uncommitted.

The chairman of the Nebraska delegation said 20 to 23 of the

There are undeniable advantages to air conditioning one's home. But against the advantages must be weighed the expense and the number of days out of the year when it is really needed. Undoubtedly, the warmer your climate the 30 members are still unpledged although this could change at a caucus this week.

In Colorado, State Rep. Richard Gebhart who headed Kennedy's state campaign, said he had no reason to believe Kennedy-pledged delegates would come out for McGovern before the convention.

There was no comment from the Kennedy family, but McGovern said he neither expected nor would seek any.

Quick endorsement came from former Kennedy aides Pierre Salinger, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. and Frank Mankiewicz. The latter handled press matters for Robert Kennedy and will do the same for McGovern.

McGovern said he had talked to other top Kennedy aides and had been given "a very green light from all of them."

But both Humphrey and McCarthy indicated they expect McGovern to have little impact on their campaigns.

"I really don't think it will have appreciable effect," said Humphrey who also claimed 1,600 delegate votes, more than the 1,312 needed for nomination.

McCarthy, echoing the same sentiment, said that if anything it will make it easier for Kennedy delegates to "come to me."

McGovern, before he announced, had 26 delegates committed to him. They represent the South Dakota delegation won by Kennedy in the state's primary.

The most recent Associated Press poll of firm delegate votes showed 79 1/2 for Humphrey, 42 1/2 for McCarthy and 1,408 uncommitted or pledged to favorite sons.

McGovern is running for reelection to a second Senate term, but said if he gets the presidential nomination he will quit the Senate race.

McGovern first entered politics in 1953 as South Dakota Democratic chairman, was twice elected to the House, but was defeated in a Senate race in 1960 by incumbent Republican Karl Mundt.

His three successful runs for elective office were made in areas traditionally Republican.

more use you will get out of the installation.

If you live in a fairly temperate zone in which warm weather exists only in the summer and really hot days—while uncomfortable—are rare, then you might consider simpler and cheaper methods of keeping the house cool.

No matter where you live, your house will be cooler if surrounded by grassy areas rather than pavement and if your living quarters are shaded by trees.

Remember that nights tend to be cooler and you should operate on the principle of filling your house with night air, and closing it against the warmer air during the day.

Exhaust fans used at night will pull stuffy air out of a dwelling, allowing it to be replaced by cooler air rushing in from outdoors.

Start using the fan at dusk, when temperatures outside start to be lower than inside. Keep it running until early morning. Draw the shades on the sunny side of the house, even close the windows. Your house will tend to warm up as the day goes on but not as quickly and by evening you will be ready to start cooling it again.

Fans range in style and size from the simple window fan to the giant attic mounted exhaust fan.

In an apartment or a small home, a simple window fan will help a great deal. Remember, we are talking about fans that will pull air out of a house—not simply move it around.

Place the fan in a window at one end of a room. Windows near the fan should be closed, otherwise the air movement will be through these adjacent windows instead of through the room because of this short circuiting.

Open windows farther away from the fan so that air movement will be over a long distance. For night cooling install the fan in a window opposite the bedroom, rather than in the bedroom itself. This way the bedroom will be the first room to receive the cooling breezes from outside.

In a two-story house, install the fan on an upper floor. Warm air tends to rise and cool air will be closer to the ground. This is the air that will fill the house as the upstairs air is vented out.

While you can get massive window fans, the sort that will do the best job is the built-in attic fan. If you own your own home you should consider one.

It acts as a central ventilating system. It sets all the air in the house in motion, drawing it up through attic and exhausting it outside through outlets. It draws cooler air through doors and windows throughout the rest of the house.

Even the warm air in the house is cooler than the air stored in the attic. Thus, by the time the fan is finished with its job it has cooled off the attic, too, which in turn will help to keep the rest of the house cool during the day.

Get a fan that is large enough. A good attic fan should be able to change the air in the house in a minute to a minute and a half. Fans are rated according to cubic-foot displacement. Figure the cubic feet in your house by measuring—multiplying width, length and height. You need not figure the basement or the attic.

USS Monitor to Be Raised and Exhibited

By BOB MARTIN

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — While the proud and mighty battleship USS Jersey steams through the Pacific, the antecedent of all battleships rests at the bottom of the ocean just off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

But if a group of men, working in secrecy since last April meet with success, that tiny ship, the USS Monitor, will be found, raised, and exhibited to the public.

The 127-foot "cheesebox on a raft" is famous for three achievements: Saving the Union blockade from the ironclad threat of the Confederate ship Merrimack at the battle of Hampton Roads on Mar. 9, 1862; demonstrating the obsolescence of the wooden warship; and making the movable turret a prime feature of most warships.

The original Monitor, built by Swedish-born inventor John Ericsson at the Greenpoint Navy Yard, Brooklyn, N.Y., in the first two months of 1862, was not a seaworthy vessel.

In the night of Dec. 30, 1862, she foundered in one of the frequent storms off Cape Hatteras—"graveyard of the Atlantic"—and sank with the loss of 4 officers and 12 men out of her crew of 63.

The location of the "tin can on a shingle" has been a mystery ever since. Accounts of her sinking place her location from 1 to 25 miles offshore.

Robert F. Marx, a professional treasure diver, claimed to have found the Union ironclad in 1955 while diving in about 50 feet of water a mile offshore, but said he could not locate the ship on subsequent dives due to shifting of the sandy ocean bottom. The group now exploring off Hatteras is a partnership between the state of North Carolina, which claims ownership under a 1967 law, and the North Carolina Tidewater Services, Inc., a salvage company.

Samuel P. Townsend, supervisor of underwater archaeology for North Carolina's State Department of Archives and History, has granted an exclusive permit to the company, under provisions of the new law, to explore for wrecks in a nine-square-mile area directly offshore and to the northeast of Hatteras point.

Many of the wrecks in the area are probably buried under shifting sand, said Robert L. Simmons, 50, a company director. The water runs to a depth of about 40 feet there.

To locate wrecks, the underwater explorers are using a differential proton magnetometer, which is designed to produce outlines of buried metal hulls.

The instruments show one outline of 160 to 180 feet by 45 to 50 feet. The monitor measured 172 by 41 feet.

Though Simmons denies that the object of his search is the Monitor, everyone else connected with the project contradicts him. Marx said Simmons had written him that he as "positive" that the instrument find was the ironclad, and that it was at the location Marx had previously reported.

Rear Adm. E. M. Eller, director of naval history, said the Navy was not interested in the vessel and would not claim her if raised. Townsend indicated he would probably try to keep the ship in North Carolina hands by paying the company 75 per cent of the vessel's worth under the 1967 law.

No one, however, has any idea how much the Monitor would be worth if raised in good condition.

Freight cars owned by U.S. railroads could form a train 15,000 miles long.

Maddox Likes Wallace for Nomination

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox, a Democrat who supported Barry Goldwater in 1964 and says he likes Alabama's George C. Wallace this year, has announced he may make a bid for his party's presidential nomination.

Maddox said his candidacy would offer a choice among one conservative and three candidates he called Socialists.

"I have no intention of running as a favorite son," he added.

Maddox said Sunday he had not discussed the idea with national or state Democratic party officials, and had no idea what their reaction would be.

His decision, he added, could come "as late as the day of the convention. Or it could be tomorrow."

After losing several elections, including two for mayor, and a 1962 race for lieutenant governor, Maddox defeated former Gov. Ellis G. Arnall for the Monday, August 12, 1968 Democratic nomination for governor in 1968.

He was elected governor in January 1967 by the Georgia General Assembly after neither he nor Republican Howard "Bo" Callaway received a majority of general election votes. Callaway outpolled Maddox by 3,039 votes.

Before his election, Maddox, 52, became known as the Atlanta restaurant owner who closed rather than comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act to serve Negroes.

Maddox said the Democratic party nominees, including South Dakota Sen. George S. McGovern who announced Saturday, offer no choice.

Plane Crash Claims Three More Victims

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Three more persons died Sunday, raising to 35 the number killed by the crash of a Piedmont Airlines plane.

Two survivors, Barbara Schiller, 19, and Thomas Volgnier, 27, both of Cincinnati, remained in satisfactory condition at Charleston Memorial Hospital.

"I thought it was all a bad dream, just a bad dream," Miss Schiller said. "I wasn't even looking out the window when it happened. I blacked out and when I woke up they were throwing foam all over us."

Miss Schiller was en route to vacation at Virginia Beach with two of those who died Sunday, Judy Benhase, 20, and Sue Boskin, 19, both of Cincinnati, Darrell Triplett, 20, of Branchland, W.Va., also died Sunday.

The twin-engine Fairchild FH227, flight 230 from Louisville, Ky., to Norfolk, Va., was making an instrument landing in fog and smoke when it crashed short of the main runway at Charleston's Kanawha Airport Saturday.

The plane skipped over the top of a 300-foot ravine before the runway and skidded 75 yards down the airstrip as it caught fire.

The crash is being investigated by the National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Edward E. Slatery Jr., the board's director of public affairs, said Sunday the glide slope equipment at the airport has not been operating since June 16 because of "trouble with the antenna position."

The glide slope is a phase of the airport's instrument landing system.

W. G. McGee, a Piedmont vice president, said positive identification of the bodies was expected to be finished today.

The accident was the fourth fatal crash in Piedmont's history and was the worst air disaster in West Virginia.

Convict Escapes on Horseback

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Authorities were searching today for John Oliver, 27, a Tucker Prison Farm inmate who escaped Sunday on horseback.

A prison spokesman said Oliver was serving 15 years for armed robbery from Pulaski County. The spokesman said the horse had been recovered and it was believed Oliver had gotten a ride in a car.

Animal Adventures Help Make Auto Trips Fun

By JIM CROSSLEY

Either a raccoon got into their breadbox, a beaver slapped a tail at them or the bear outside the tent was really a cow.

Homecoming vacationers are loaded with stories about animal encounters during their travels. It's one of the reasons auto tours are fun—especially those in campers and trailers.

Bob Humbel of Norwalk, Ohio, came back with a yarn that corrects an injustice.

Almost everyone has heard about the panhandling bears in Yellowstone. Park attendants do everything short of padlocking visitors' car windows to prevent accidental injuries to motorists who respond to the bears' roadside begging.

The burros of South Dakota haven't had the publicity, probably because they don't get into as much trouble.

Nevertheless, civilization has reached these residents of Custer State Park in the Black Hills and whether they heard about the bears or just thought it up, they're panhandlers, too.

"As visitors' cars move along the roads they run into herds of the animals," Humbel reports. "They work in groups and block progress."

"Man's giant intellect soon gets the message. The only way to move them is to toss anything edible on the roadside, then send the car on a quick-opening plunge through the hole that has opened in the line."

"It's a toll gate, literally."

Additional evidence of the animal world's adaptation to the ways of our society comes from another part of the country, the Delaware Water Gap in the Poconos.

Visitors swear this scene takes place all the time at a public deer farm there and it may be true at the other deer parks springing up around the country as tourist attractions.

The visitor doesn't have long to wait to see the "free-roaming denizens of the wild" when he comes in the entrance.

There is usually a knot of deer loafing inside the front gate and soon you learn why. As you hesitate to get your bearings, one of the loafers approaches. Unprepared, you are startled when he lowers an antler with a side twist of the head and gives you a gentle poke with it.

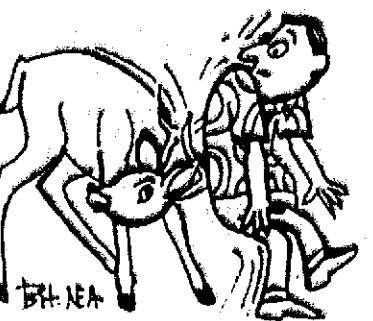

You've never seen anything like this in a nature movie. There's only one thing to do. Retreat a step.

A few more gentle nudges with the antler used like a stick and the plot unfolds. You are being pushed toward one of the little slot machine devices that dispense food.

These gadgets are all over such parks and a coin brings out a small packet of biscuits or other food the animals love.

So you wind up nudged directly in front of the food supply. There's a disillusioning climax. The free-loader and others that are attracted will gobble the food as long as the coins hold out. When the coins are gone or you get tired of buying for the moochers, you say, "That's all."

The previously jovial crowd studies you with soft eyes for a minute to see if you mean it. Convinced that you do—and they really know—they drop their former buddy, turn their backs (Can animals sneer?) and head away from cheap-skate country. The one with the poking antlers slouches back to await his turn at another easy mark.

Believe it, you have never been really dropped until you have been dropped by a deer. Scr-a-m.

To all of which there seems to be this moral: There's a big difference between dumb and stupid.

Briton Goes on Trial in Haiti

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The Haitian government promised testimony that will outdo the wildest intrigues of the "CIA and the British Intelligence Service" in the trial opening today of a British official accused of helping to plot an abortive invasion in May.

David Knox, 44, information director of the Bahamas, was seized after he entered Haiti under an assumed name May 31 and paid a doctor $60 to cut two scars into his face, the government says. It contends he acted as a special British agent.

A government spokesman said the trial would include sensational disclosures about "foreign elements" in the United States, Canada and the Bahamas who the regime of President Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier claims plotted the unsuccessful invasion by a small band of exiles on May 20.

The newspaper Nouveau Monde, which speaks for the Duvalier regime, said Knox "played a certain role, and not a small one, in the preparations" for the invasion.

Knox is being tried by a military tribunal at the Jean Dessalines barracks. He is expected to conduct his own defense.

Ten of the invaders who landed by plane in a remote region of the country were captured and condemned to death by the same military tribunal trying Knox. However, Duvalier is expected to pardon them. One of the 10, Raymond Toussaint, identified Knox through a photograph as a man who inspected a rebel training camp on the Bahaman island of Inagua. The government claims the plotters trained on the island under the noses of the British and Americans who operate a space tracking station there.

British officials have denied that Knox was a member of MI-6, the British military intelligence agency. Britain's high commissioner for Jamaica and its ambassador to Haiti, Dalton Murray, has come to Port au Prince for the trial and visited Knox Saturday.

Knox's case is indirectly linked with that of Oswald J. Brandt, Haiti's richest man, and his son Clifford, who were arrested six weeks ago and charged with putting up $150,000 to finance the invasion.

Eisenhower Showing Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, nearing the end of a critical period of recovery after his sixth heart attack, continues to "show satisfactory improvement."

This was reported by doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital in their daily bulletin Sunday.

The 77-year-old general of the Army suffered his latest attack last Tuesday while at Walter Reed recuperating from an earlier one.

Doctors generally believe the first week after a heart attack to be the most critical period.

N. Vietnam Blasts U.S. Candidates

By HARVEY HUDSON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — A North Vietnamese spokesman today blasted both the Republican and Democratic parties of the United States, but saved a special attack for the Republican presidential candidate, Richard M. Nixon.

The way was left open for more specific criticism of the Democratic candidate after that party's convention later this month.

Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation at the Paris peace talks with the United States, went into American politics at a news conference.

He said that the Republican platform and Nixon's personal stand could not possibly lead to an end to the Vietnamese war.

Le asserted he did not want to interfere with the internal affairs of the United States, but thought it was pertinent to give his views on Republican statements concerning Vietnam. He added that he was not referring to any policies of Nixon other than those concerning Vietnam.

Le referred to the platform plan on Vietnam adopted by the Republicans at Miami Beach and said "this program does not propose the unconditional halt of bombing and other acts of war against the Peoples Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam, and does not speak of withdrawing American troops from Vietnam."

These have been two of the principal demands of the North Vietnamese at Paris.

Furthermore, Le argued that before the Paris talks opened Nixon had recommended an intensification and extension of the war in Vietnam. He quoted Nixon as saying that he refused to "sell out" South Vietnam.

"Nixon has pushed impudence to the limit in considering the southern part of our country as his property," Le said.

Le also said that such an attitude shows that Nixon recommends a perpetuation of the division of the country and a continued policy of neocolonialism in South Vietnam.

Le volunteered his comments on the Republican party and Nixon at the news conference. When a reporter asked if he had anything to say about the Democratic party or perhaps Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Le said his government has often condemned the policies of the Democratic administration.

As for the candidates for the Democratic nomination he said "up to now we do not have enough information" to comment.

He said the Paris talks "have made no progress and the United States government must bear full responsibility."

When asked about a statement attributed to Humphrey that peace was nearer than at any time, Le said "this declaration is inexact."

BALTIMORE (AP) — South Africa's Bob Hewitt heads the foreign draw for the Baltimore Invitational grass court tennis tournament, which begins Tuesday.

Hewitt is seeded first among 11 foreign entries in a 43-player men's division and the top domestic seed is Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y.

Mary Ann Eisel, ranked second among American women amateurs, is seeded first in the women's division, which combines domestic and foreign players in the same draw.

Nixon Maps Strategy for the Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is mapping a Republican presidential campaign that will stress television instead of hectic rounds of vote-seeking rallies.

And Nixon seeks also to make the most of his vice presidential running mate, Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, in dealing with campaign issues and in covering territory for the ticket.

Those themes emerged from the strategy sessions under way during Nixon's working vacation at Mission Bay, a San Diego resort. A new round of talks was set today, while Agnew planned his first independent campaign trip and Mrs. Nixon, with daughter Tricia, sets out for three days of appearances from Seattle to Los Angeles.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, a Nixon ally in the campaign for the GOP presidential nomination and the chairman of his key issues committee, was due in San Diego to sit in on the talks shaping the autumn program.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's

chief spokesman, said the nominee and his men already had decided to continue the television emphasis they considered a key weapon during the presidential primaries.

Along with that emphasis, Klein said, will come a cutback in the round of personal appearances which has characterized past presidential campaigns. Klein said the Nixon forces realize that when the nominee is going to face a massive television audience, he must have time to rest and prepare.

"This time, there will be adequate preparation," Klein said. That evidently is a lesson learned from the physically exhausting campaign Nixon ran eight years ago. The problem was evidenced most clearly when a tired and haggard Nixon faced John F. Kennedy in the first of their televised debates.

As for teamwork between the two GOP nominees, Klein said Nixon wants to fashion "the most closely coordinated dual campaign in history."

Klein said the staffs of the presidential and the vice presidential nominee will be tied closely together, and their travels—as well as the things they say on issues—will be carefully coordinated.

This, too, apparently stems from a lesson learned in the narrow defeat of 1960. Henry Cabot Lodge was the vice presidential nominee then, and he sometimes took an independent course.

Agnew participated in some of the campaign planning sessions Sunday and tape recorded a broadcast message to the citizens of Maryland, saying he has no intention of resigning as governor and will continue to make the final decisions on affairs of state.

Agnew scheduled a trip to San Francisco to confer with former Mayor George Christopher and to appear at receptions and a dinner.

Klein said Nixon will confer during the week with Republican leaders, possibly including California Gov. Ronald Reagan,
